

Polen Capital Summer Internships

Are you interested in a highly interactive, dynamic and challenging summer internship?

The Polen Capital Summer Internships offer rising college or university seniors and second-year MBA students the opportunity to gain hands-on experience and exposure to the asset management industry. Polen Capital seeks to attract, develop, and retain exceptionally-talented young professionals who are committed to our firmwide goal of preserving and growing clients' assets to protect their present and enable their future.

The Polen Capital Summer Internships are collaborative and project-based; Summer Interns will work directly with team members to produce tangible results and add value to the firm. In doing so, Summer Interns will learn about the asset management industry and Polen Capital's investment philosophy and process. The Summer Interns are provided with educational, training, and mentorship opportunities.

Testimonials

“The internship experience at Polen Capital is second to none. Although my internship was virtual due to Covid-19, the entire firm came together to provide a phenomenal summer. Throughout various firm social events, I interacted with members across a variety of teams including the company's corporate leaders. As a member of the Advisor Relations team, I was taught many useful skills that I will be able to take with me for the rest of my career. In the team-oriented environment, I was encouraged to be curious and conduct my own research on topics I thought were influential. In conclusion, Polen's helpful, collaborative culture coupled with the opportunity to make a real impact proved that Polen Capital is the ideal team to join.” – Maxx Estrin, University of Michigan ’22

“I initially chose Polen Capital for my summer internship as I wanted to experience the different aspects of Asset Management at a boutique firm. From the beginning, I was treated like an integral part of the company, and I worked on meaningful tasks throughout the summer that has already translated to other areas of my professional career. Culturally, Polen truly cares about its interns and their experiences, thus I was exposed to upper-management early and often through Fireside Chats, and I was given ample opportunities to meet the other interns, the people within my department, and everyone else within Polen Capital. I feel as though I learned something new every day, meet someone new every day, and was able to grow my competence within finance significantly from the program, and I simply thrived in the people-focused environment that Polen Capital strives for.” – Will Sepanski, Vanderbilt University ’21

“The internship with Polen is a great way to learn as much as possible about the asset management industry, being a boutique firm there is exposure to almost all departments within the company. Each Intern is given well-defined projects to work on throughout the internship, helping you develop new skills. The projects also benefit the team, meaning you are a valued member of your team and more than just an intern. Throughout the internship you are encouraged to learn as well as complete projects. The mentor and buddy system is a great way to gain a greater understanding as you can ask questions over weekly one-on-one checkups and catch up about your projects.” - James Bacon, Loughborough University ’20

“I chose to intern with Polen because of its culture of opportunity and personal advancement. From my first interactions with the firm, they made it clear that working at the firm, even in the internship program, is intended to be a partnership in which both parties benefit. In addition, the position at Polen was differentiated by the opportunity to complete meaningful projects for the firm and work one-on-one with an experienced investment professional.” – Peter Holt, Princeton University ’18

“As a summer intern at Polen Capital, I could work on a well-scoped project which had a significant impact on the firm. I was given the opportunity to work with the latest technology and tools, interact with software providers and seek feedback from experienced professionals from top business schools. The emphasis on learning is remarkable – weekly ‘lunch & learn’ sessions paved a great path for me to get a well-rounded understanding of the business. It is inspiring to work in an environment where employees demonstrate ownership and do more than expected.” – Jyothi Bellurkar, Dartmouth University (Masters) ’18.
